Descripton: A gleaming glass box of stuffed animals and other prizes piled high, ripe for the picking…yes, the claw machine is an arcade classic. The sides of the arcade cabinet house six additional buttons allowing you to make a 45 degree angle, or split your attack into three attacks. Designed by Joe Angotano and artist Clay Reynolds. Weapon wise, each player has access to three weapons with different functions and attack styles. My Neighborhood Arcade: Claw Machine Pro Unit X64 2022 [New]

An arcade classic, Claw Machine is an arcade classic: work your way through a series of mazes, trying to get to a game of the claw, in order to take out all the items (pets) in the machine. In this My Neighborhood Arcade offering, you'll be allowed to find six items (pets) from the machine. And you'll have to navigate through a couple of mazes to get to them.Each item has its own start and end points. Items are dropped from the claw when they are moved far enough down the machine. Use your keys (hold down a direction) to move them. Items on the bottom level of the machine take longer to get to than items on the top level. Each time you successfully pick up a pet, you'll get a ticket. The ticket is valid for a single item only. If you're trying to get more than one item, you'll need more than one ticket. And your tickets are limited to your personal use in this game. Finally, when you pick up the last item, the claw closes. Like life, the item returns to the claw when it's time to open the next maze. Like life, it's your choice what you want to do with the item once you pick it up. All told, there's 26 distinct mazes to complete in the game. If you finish the maze before the claw closes, you'll get a letter. You can then exchange the letter for a trophy and an achievement to go along with it. But before you start looking, be sure to make sure the machine has some additional items up.Most of the pets will be on the top level of the machine. Move slowly, carefully, and try to be as fast as you can. If you take the time to open up your inventory and drop the items in their order of occurrence, you'll get the trophy "Claw Machine Results" without any need for the items. And, you can try to complete the rest of the achievements from the My Neighborhood Arcade game too. If you're familiar with the game, you'll know where to look for each of the items (pets). And if you're not familiar with the game, you'll still get to play it again in the same way you would if you were familiar with the game. If you get stuck, you can always quit the game and play it

What's new:

/1 (PSV) Review @ PSLS Introduction Diabolist Studios is a new developer, which is not well known in the Japanese gaming scene. Originally part of the Donkey Konga development group, last year they decided to step out on their own. Now they have released two very different arcade games on the PSV. The first game is the arcade classic Claw Machine, a game that was released throughout all of Japan in the past. Claw Machine Pro Unit/1 is a fighting game, and Diabolist has taken the good elements of their original version and put them into a play focused fighting game. I reviewed the first version of this game and gave it a strong recommendation. The link to that review will be at the bottom of this review of the Pro Unit/1 version. They did some great fine tuning and improvements, which are well worth checking out. Claw Machine Pro Unit/1 (CLW) review version 1.0.0.503 Developer: Diabolist Publisher: Diabolist First Person View: No Genre: Fighting ESRB: Everyone 10+ The Good Claw Machine Pro Unit/1 is a well designed and polished arcade fighting game. It's not a clone of any fighting game that I've ever played, and I've played nearly every fighting game there is for the PSV. I do a lot of online play, and I don't play as much as I used to. The fighting engine for this game is well designed and balanced. It's not stock fighting without consideration of all possible buttons to plug in on the actual arcade controllers. Claw Machine has a lot going for it, and even the new controller has plenty of good input options. It includes a single stick system, as well as a new control system called the "Gratitude Set". The Gratitude Set allows the player to make up to 2 characters fight. A Gratitude Set can control both, or it can only control one, depending on what you want to play. Gratitude Points work as currency in Claw Machine. They can be purchased in packs of six for 150 Gold points, or they can be earned in the normal way. Characters can also be leveled up to a certain point, allowing them to benefit more from being purchased in packs of six. When you have more coins than a character can actually use,
